Greetings from the President

Dear IASBS Members

I wish to begin by expressing my appreciation to Dr. Leslie Kawamura, his conference committee, University of Calgary and the North American District for hosting the 13th IASBS Biennial Conference. I am sure that the attendees would agree with me that the conference was enjoyable and the papers were wide-ranging in content and the discussions – during and beyond the sessions – were lively and constant. The food was delicious, and the three meals taken together brought us closer. And the excursion on the third day to the famed Banff was enthralling to say the least.

The approximately 80 delegates from as far away as Australia, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Brazil joined larger contingents from the North American, Hawaii and Japan Districts. This number was a significant increase from the 30 or so who attended the last time the conference was held in Calgary in 1997.

A total of 40 papers were presented in two concurrent sessions, of which about eight were given in Japanese. And it was heartening to witness a larger number of younger participants, for the enlisting of larger number of younger scholars to IASBS has been one of the stated goals of the current administration.
At the conference, the Steering Committee met for over three hours to recommend a number of important administrative changes (please see detailed report in this newsletter), which were all approved at the general meeting. One of the approved items is to make our journal, The Pure Land, available online one year after its publication. This is a significant move toward greater dissemination of IASBS activities to the larger academic and religious world. This, too, is in line with the call to all IASBS members to sharing your knowledge and passion with a wider circle of people.

The next IASBS conference will be held at Ryukoku University in Kyoto from 14-16 June 2009. I hope to see many of you there.

Best wishes,

Kenneth K. Tanaka
The designated theme of this year’s IASBS conference was Shinran’s famously seminal description of himself as “Neither Monk nor Layperson”. At the venue on the lovely campus of the University of Calgary, 86 registered delegates from as far afield as Canada, USA, Japan, Taiwan, Brazil and Australia gathered to consider this and related matters. We were thankfully able to do so in temperate comfort, enjoying beautiful weather conditions unlike the sweltering summer heat experienced at past conferences.

In the course of a short opening ceremony from 10 to 10.30 on the morning of August 3rd, the assembled participants were welcomed and briefly addressed by our Conference Co-ordinator, Leslie Kawamura; followed by Professor Rowland Smith, Dean of the University of Calgary’s Faculty of Humanities; Professor Eliezer Segal, Acting Head of the University’s Department of Religious Studies; Reverend Orai Fujikawa, Bishop of the Buddhist Churches of Canada; and Professor Kenneth Tanaka, President of the International Association of Shin Buddhist Studies. Participants were informed that organization of the 2007 conference had proven an arduous task beset with problems, keenly reminding us of our great collective indebtedness to the wholehearted efforts of Leslie Kawamura, and to those who generously assisted Leslie in making the success of this event possible nonetheless.

Keynote Address

Between 10.30 and 11.30am, our assembly then benefited from an excellent keynote address, delivered by Dr. Mark Blum of the State University of New York (Albany), titled “Religious Values that Define a Tradition – Rennyo’s Voice in Premodern, Modern, and Postmodern Shinshu”. Dr. Blum brought home to his listeners the extraordinary impact of Rennyo upon the development of Shinshu doctrine, and upon the phenomenal growth of the Hongwanji during times of the utmost difficulty and danger - an astonishing transformation from a tiny temple into a religious institution of enduring eminence. This story of extraordinary leadership was shown to be even more striking given the humbling personal circumstances of much of Rennyo’s life, being born illegitimate and enduring real long-suffering and grinding poverty.
Doubtless grateful for their own more congenial personal circumstances, delegates then adjourned for a buffet lunch together in the Ballroom of the nearby MacEwan Student Center, after which we returned to the Rosza Center and concurrent conference sessions commenced.

Session One – Friday, August 3rd, 1.30 to 3pm
Three papers were delivered during the first session. The presenters and the titles of their papers were: Shogo Watanabe (Toyo University) “Various Phases of Bodhisattva in Mahayana Buddhism”; Shoken Takekoshi (Otani University) “Neither Monk nor Lay: Based on the Postscript of Kyogyoshinsho”; and Hoshu Matsubayashi (Seattle Buddhist Church) “Contemporary Examination of Amida and the Pure Land”.

Session Two – Friday, August 3rd, 1.30 to 3pm
The second session was chaired by Jessica Main, featuring four papers. Presenters and paper titles were: Naoyuki Ogi (Institute of Buddhist Studies) “Neither a Monk nor One in Worldly Life and Gutoku: Understanding Shinran’s Social Consciousness”; Takashi Imai (Graduate School of Musashino University) “The Concept of “Pain” in Terminal Care: An Approach Based on Pure Land Practice”; Jessica Main (McGill University) “Other Agency in the Jodoshinshu: Neither Monk, Layman, Nor Conventional Moral Actor”; and Gregg Heathcote (University of Newcastle, Australia) “Dharma’s Spirited Humour and the Good Sense of Nembutsu Nonsense: Comical Follies of Buddha and Bombu Cruising Collapsible Rivers”.

Session Three – Friday, August 3rd, 3.30 to 5pm
The third session featured four papers. Presenters and their paper titles were: Hironobu Ito (Otani University) “Living in the Vow, Together”; Hidetsugu Takayama (Musashino University Research Institute for Buddhist Culture) “Societal Action of Inouye Enryo: The Challenge of a Modern Buddhist”; Xiao Yue (Bukkyo University) “The Names of the Buddha (Amituo/Wuliangqingqing) in the Early Recension of the Larger Sukhavativyuha-sutra”; and Makio Takemura (Toyo University) “Salvation and Social Activity – Concerning the Problem of Aspect of Returning”.

Session Four – Friday, August 3rd, 3.30 to 5pm
Session Five – Saturday, August 4th, 9 to 10.30am

Charles Prebish chaired the fifth session, during which four papers were presented. Presenters and the titles of their papers were: Michael Christopher (Mindful Living Group) “Buddhism and the Science of Enlightenment and Pathology”; Dorothy Sutton (Ohio State University) “Amida Crossing the Pacific: Shin Buddhism in Hawaii”; Jerry Bolick (Brisbane, California) “Conversations With a Buddhist Friend, Ground Level Ministry in North America”; and Patti Nakai (Buddhist Temple of Chicago) “Ondogyo: A Seeker Like Us”.

Session Six – Saturday, August 4th, 9 to 10.30am

The sixth session, chaired by James Dobbins, featured four papers. Presenters and paper titles were: Esho Shimazu (Ryukoku University) “Spontaneous Three Actions Issue in the Sangowakuran Debate”; Chao-ti Wu (Chin Min Institute of Technology, Taiwan) “The Thought of Daochuo in Pure Land Buddhism”; Galen Amstutz (Ryukoku University) “Can We Learn Something from the Omi”; and Angela Andrade (Hompa Honganji, Brasil) “Away from duality - Shinran’s comprehensive path”.

Session Seven – Saturday, August 4th, 11am to 12.30pm

The seventh session offered the Jodo-Shu Research Institute Panel’s perspectives upon the theme ‘The Pure Land Experience of Ojo and Honen’s Instructions for Death: Ancient Myth or Reality?’. Panelists and the titles of their respective papers were: Jonathan Watts “Dissolving Karmic Cancer: Practicing the Pali Teachings in the Modern World”; Clyde Whitworth “On Death and Dying: Practical Applications of Honen’s Dharma among Convert American Buddhists”; Yoshiharu Tomatsu “The classical teachings of Honen’s Pure Land Buddhism and the present day reality of Buddhist spiritual practice in Japanese society”; and Mark Blum “Never Die Alone: Images of deathbed experiences in Heian and Kamakura Pure Land Materials”.

Session Eight – Saturday, August 4th, 11am to 12.30pm

Kenneth Tanaka chaired the eighth session, during which four papers were presented. Presenters and the titles of their papers were: Masaya Shimizu (Musashino University Graduate School) “How I have read King Ajatasatru’s Emancipation”; Makoto Honda (Ryukoku University) “The Ecological Perspectives on Holiness: What connects Buddhism and ecology?”; Hoyu Ishida (University of Shiga Prefecture) “Amida and the Time-Space Interformation in the Here and Now”; and Hisako Narasaki (Ryukoku University) “Lotus Roots in Muddy Waters: A Survey and Analysis of Five BCA Temples”.

Session Nine – Saturday, August 4th, 2 to 3.30pm

Four papers were delivered during the ninth session. Presenters and their paper titles were: Takami Inoue (Otani University) “The Significance of the “One-Practice Samadhi” in Early Pure Land
Session Ten – Saturday, August 4th, 2 to 3.30pm
The tenth session consisted of a panel discussion both convened and chaired by Kenneth Tanaka. The theme of that discussion was ‘Our Conceptions and Portrayals of Amida in the Contemporary World’. Panelists and the titles of their presented papers were: Tomoyasu Naito (Ryukoku University) “Expressing Amida Buddha in the Contemporary World”; Lisa Grumbach (Institute of Buddhist Studies) “Frankenstein’s Monster and the Modern Amida: Monster Theory, Buddhist Modernism, and Conceptions of Amida Buddha”; Daniel Frederick (Kyoto University of Foreign Studies) “Amida Buddha as Other”; Carl Becker (Kyoto University) “Our Conceptions and Portrayals of Amida in the Contemporary World”; and Kenneth Tanaka (Musashino University) “Amida as the Life-Giving Force of Creative Nature: A Call to Expanding the Amida Paradigm”.

Upon conclusion of the final two conference sessions, a general meeting of the gathered IASBS membership was convened. Consideration was then given to matters referred from the lengthy Steering Committee meeting held on Friday evening, and resolutions were passed. One such resolution importantly endorsed the proposal that the next, 14th Biennial Conference of the International Association of Shin [and Pure Land] Buddhist Studies shall be held at the Omiya Campus of Ryukoku University in Kyoto, sometime during the period from late May to June, 2009.

On Saturday evening, a fine Conference Banquet was held in the Ballroom of the MacEwan Student Center, bringing all the delegates together one last time and affording a further splendid opportunity to socialize with friends and colleagues; a final opportunity for those not going on the optional excursion to Banff the following day.

Sunday, August 5th
Approximately 40 of the conference delegates also participated in this day trip by coach up to the resort town of Banff in the Rocky Mountains west of Calgary. The famous mountain scenery was, of course, magnificent and our buffet lunch at Banff Springs Hotel was excellent. Above and beyond these boons though, it was the cherished chance to spend more ‘quality time’ in each other’s company that gave the outing its greatest value. All too soon it was over and we sadly said our farewells, hoping to all meet again for another memorable conference the year after next.
Excursion to the famous Banff on August 5th. From left to right: Shogo Watanabe (Toyo University), Kenneth Tanaka (Musashino University), Esho Shimazu (Ryukoku University), Carl Becker (Kyoto University) and Akiko Ochiai (Tohoku University).
